The new company will only make the same articles now being made; they simply propose to add a rolling-mill and large furnace for converting the raw material into merchantable iron. Since the company has been formed Mr. Bruce has purchased the piece of property running from the rear of his present works back to Sixth street, which belonged to Mrs. John Tyler and on which there is a large brick stable. By, this addition the works will be made to cover a half square, just twice the size of cover a half square, just twice the size of the present establishment. The stable will be converted into sheds, under which wil be located the furnace and rolling-mills. THE CAPACITY.

The works, if operated both night and day turns, will yield from twenty to twenty-five tons each twenty-four hours; if only operated on the day turn the output will be, of course, but half of this quantity. It is not now proposed to increase the capacity of the present works, only to add the fur-nace and rolling mill that the material used may be made there instead of having to be

The fifth annual convention of the Traveller's Protective Association of the United States will be held in the city of St. Louis, Mo., from June 21st to 28th. Virginia will be represented by John S. Harwood, C. E. Sydnor, and H. E. Hirshburg, of Richmond; James Levy, of Norfolk, and G. F. Luckado, of Lyuchburg. Extensive preparations are being made to receive and entertain the delevales and visitors attending, and the headquarters of the Virginia divison the headquarters of the Virginia divisions will be located at the Southern Hotel.

It is proposed to have two trains carrying the eastern delegations—one leaving New York on Saturday, June 18th, for the New England and New York divisions, and one leaving Baltimore for the Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina delegations, but arrangements are not yet completed. Virginia expects to earry about thirty members, who will leave here for Baltimore with the North Carolina divison on Friday the 17th.

The badges of the Virginia delegation are said to be the handsomest ever made and have been admired by everybody who has seen them. They are composed of red, white, and blue ribbon, three inches wide and twelve inches long, and finished in silver ti immings, with a silver T. P. A. pin. On the red piece is the coat of arms of our state and underneath the word "Delegate." On the centre (white) piece is the monogram of the association and underneath the word "Virginia." A Ghostly Object Hauled Out of th Medical College.

On February 11th Mrs. Walker disap-peared from her bome on Union Hill, since which time nothing has been heard of her. This mystery followed others something of the sort, and in the opinion of many of the colored people of this city, the missing ones were "spritted away" by one Chris Baker. Baker has long had the reputation of being a "body-snatcher," and it is more than probable that the suspicion does him no injustice as referring to past years, but that he bad anything to do with Mrs. Walker's taking-off is outerly absurd. In the first place, bodies for dissecting purposes are now pientifully obtained, by authority of law, from prisons and poor-houses. In the second, it would have been impossible that Chris could have known that Mrs. Walker meant to get out of bed to wilk in the street at 1 A. M. Nevertheless, the sensation-loving people of his race have put him in fear for his life, and, having been repeatedly threatened on the streets, he resolved to keep out of harm's way, and for months the sort, and in the opinion of many of the ealy threatened on the streets, he resolved to keep out of harm's way, and for months past has housed himself in the Medical College. Here he does the work of a laborer in the day; here he has his means brought, and here he sleeps at night.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning Chris Baker was roused from peaceful dreams and sense of security by piteous cries proceeding from the ceilar—a place where no live body had a right to be. Whether his enemies were invoking him to his destruction or the spirits of the departed were calling down vengence upon his head for violation of their sepulture, Chris did not take time to investigate, but forthwith proceeded to the hospital building and aroused or the constraint of the const tered the ceilar whence the distressful sounds were still proceeding. Here a ghost-like creature was found. That he was a man was certain, for he was drunk; moreover, he taiked, but how or why he was in that place he could not explain.

Something of an investigation was now made, and it was ascertained that the tururder was from one of the counties on the Chesapeake bay; that he came to Richmond for surgical treatment; that he had left the hospital and gone on the street in search of hospital and gone on the street in search of bracing fluids; that he drank not wisely but too much; that between 1 and 2 o'clock he set out to return to the hospital, and mistaking the Medical College for that building, attempted to gain an entrance. Fumbling about the yard he tumbled into the area on the side of the college, and thence opened a window and got into the cellar, the floor of which, for sanitary purposes, was sprinkled with lime. Into the material he rolled, and, of course, it adhere to his clothes, and when found he preser ed a most albinous appearance. Ye terday morning he was taken before the Police Justice's Court, where, under the name of Haywood, he was fined $2.50 for trespassing upon the college property.

The Widow of the President to the Widow of the Great Preacher. Mrs. Tyler has written a memorial letter to Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, on learning that the great I reacher, only six weeks pre-vious to his death, in an evening sermon of rare excellence, delivered before an im-mense audience, in which he spoke to paterest for the moral and intellectual wel-fare of his children, each and all, is so-sweetly and beautifully portrayed in his published letters. The affecting illustration of Mr. Tyler's virtues before a north-ern sudience by one who was politically opposed to him in the past is said to have brought tears to the eyes of his numer.

For men were exposed to greater party violence than Mr. Tyler, and yet no man ever received sweeter recognitions from the public than he did. In the south he subdued all hearts prior to his death, for there we all recognized that he combined in the duty of William D. Temple, who is a sting as sheriff. a singular degree the highest attributes of the statesman, the father, and the Coris-tian. Union. The first social of the Methodist Laymen's Union of Richmond and Manchester was held at Pizzini's, Thursday night, with a large attendance of delegates from the various churches of the two places. A constitution was adopted, many new members were enrolled, and permanent officers elected for the first year, as follows: John elected for the first year, as follows: John P. Branch, of Centenary, president; J. Thompson Brown, of Park-Place, first vice-president; P. J. Crew, of Trinity, second vice-president; J. N. Vauchan, of Brond-Street, third vice-president; G. J. NEWS FROM MANCHESTER TO INTE REST THE "DISPATCH'S" READERS.

The Business Outlook Promising and Real Estate Active Puryear's Hanging-Personals and Briefs.

Manchester is on the advance. There is no great boom, but business is brisk, real state is active, much building is in progress, and altogether the present is satisfactory and the outlook promising. Our merchants and business-men are energeticalis chants and business-men are energetically exerting themselves, and in most tastances their efforts are attended with results that are most encouraging for a future of substantial prosperity.

Monchester has a street-railway that is well conducted with a view to suiting the convenience of the public, which has proved a profitable investment for its owners since its operation begun, in December, 1886. Another is proposed, which, when constructed, will build up many wasteplaces in the lower part of the city. There is objection to the cars running on Fourteenth street, in Richmond, but, as was very aptly remarked by one of the corporators in conversation with the Despatch reporter a few days ago, if the road is built porators in conversation with the Dispatch reporter a few days ago, if the road is built on the streets proposed to be occupied in this city and to the Richmond end of Mayo's bridge it, with the assistance of popular sentiment, will spor force its way to Main street. The people of the lower ward are clamoring for a street-railway, and it is to be sincerely hoped that all obstacles will soon be removed and let this company, which boldly announces its purpose to build, go ahead and do the needed work.

As has been previously stated, the Old

As has been previously stated, the Old Dominion Electric-Light and Power Company has been granted permission to locate its plant and erect poles and run wires here for the purpose of furnishing light to pri-vate subscribers. The lot at the corner of Fifth and Porter streets has been selected as the location of the plant, the poles are being put up, and the electric light will be shedding its juminous rays in and adding brilliancy to the stores of most of our merchanis in a few weeks. There is a ceneral desire that we shall have electric light for our streets, and it is no doubt a question of but short time when we will be thus made happy. These are some among the numerous evidences of Manchester's growth, and in a measure point to her fu-

One of the most practical demonstrations of the city's increasing wealth is the amount of building in progress. There are to be found but few idle carpenters and other mechanics. They are nearly all given steady employment at mod rate prices, and most of the contractors are satisfied with the quantity of work which they have on hand.

Work on the Beattle buildings, on Hull Work on the Beattie buildings, on Hull street between Eleventh and Twelfth, is progressing well and uninterruptedly, and they are now assuming quite well-developed proportions. They will be awong the most desirable business-houses in the city, both by reason of their location and manner of construction, and will be ready for genuency carly in the fall.

ner of construction, and will be ready for occupancy early in the fall.

Mr. Woodson Nunnality's store, corner of Twelfth and Hull streets, is having its inside trimmings put up, and he will move into it in a short while.

The Pulliam buildings, on Seventh street, are receiving their finishing touches, and they will soon be all taken, some of them having been already snoken for.

they will soon be all taken, some of them having been already spoken for.

There are numerous other residences, and some of them quite handsome ones, too, building all over the city and our growing neighbor, Swansboro'.

The fact that many of the houses recently erected here are of very inferior material and very cheap structures has been much criticised, and it is not improbable that at an early day the Council will be petitioned not to permit parties desirous of paying in-pring, and the prices paid have been good

PURYEAR'S HANGING. Holmes Puryear, convicted in the Circuit Court of Prince George county of the murder in Dinwiddle of his wife, who was refused a new trial by the Supreme Court, is sentenced to be hanged on the 15th of July. The idea having been ad-acting as sheriff.

The question about the matter arose thus: At the recent election W. N. Youngblood, Temple's opponent, received a ma-jority of five votes, but there being some irregularity the Board of Canvassers excluded the vote at one precinct and the certificate was awarded to Temple. The case has been taken into the court, and will not be finally disposed of until the October term of the court. LICENSES. Our merchants are now busy taking out their licenses for the eleven months between June 1st and April 30, 1888. Under the legislation enacted on this subject at the recent extra session of the General Assembly the licenses issued the 1st of May were for but one month, and others for the remainder of the license-year have now to be taken out. No suppose have been tentaken out. No coupons have been ten-dered, and it is safe to predict that none will be, as Manchester is not a good coupon

THE FAN DRILL. The entertainment given at Cersley's Hall last night for the benefit of the Grace-Street Presbyterian church, of Richmond, was a very pleasing one, and deserved to have been better attended than it was. The fairy coronation, in which about twenty five sweet little misses in fancy costume took part, was very interesting, and the manœuvres of the young ladies in Japanese costume in the tan drill were highly amusing. They presented a very military(?) appearance. Little Miss Sallie military(?) appearance. Little Miss Sallie Epps's recitation of "Annabel Lee" was exceedingly creditable, and the comic duet, "Mr. and Mrs. Thompson," by Miss Tayr and Mr. Norment, was a very appropriate closing selection.

It means, according to the sages, happy continuance of present felicity. To-day it was discovered that the crows had begun to build their nests in the trees in front of the White House. One black crow sat cawing all day in a tall tree near the window of Mrs. Cleveland's room. This attracted the attention of Doorkeeper Dubols, whose detective instinct discovered that the crow had built its nest there.
